The Photoholics visit Sheldon, S.C.

By Cindy Hornung

For the Photography Adventures November outing, Roxann Mustian suggested a trip to Sheldon Church in Sheldon (near Yemassee), South Carolina. The day could not have been more lovely as the morning sun graced the hauntingly beautiful ruins of Sheldon Church.

Roxanne, Debbie Yeagley and I enjoyed the serene setting surrounded by live oaks, with their squiggly limbs and Spanish mosses that lazily danced in the breezes. The light enhanced the Church's architecture and spirit as it streamed through the remains of its doors and windows, onto the surrounding shadowy grounds.
